

CHANCELLOR RETAINS POWER

Efforts to Force Out German Premier Seem to Be Fairly Suppressed.

Berlin, Germany, March 21.—Friends of the imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, are now confident that he will be well in hand the political situation connected with the displacement of admiral von Tirpitz as minister of marine and that there need be no fear that it will develop into what is termed a "chancellor's crisis." They believe the national liberal and conservative organizations, calling for unlimited use of submarines against hostile vessels, with the exception of passenger ships, may not even come to the point of open discussion and a vote in the reichstag.

Two Classes of Opponents.
The movement which found expression in the resolutions is composed of two constituent elements. First there is the large body of popular opinion which, honestly interested in the submarine weapon, desires that it may have an opportunity to display its efficiency, unhampered by political restrictions. This element generally is unaware of the political motives which play a part in the movement.

Second, there are those who are now and long have been desirous of having another chancellor—one who would permit the discussion of peace terms, and the sharpening of the submarine campaign, regardless of political dangers. Some of these have admiral von Tirpitz in mind as the proper chancellor, while others have no special candidate for the post.

Chancellor Shows Strength.
The chancellor, his friends say, has proved much stronger than his opponents expected, both at headquarters, where he won in the test of strength, and among the people, where he has widespread support, particularly of the great body of lower middle classes. The moderate character of the chancellor's ideas regarding the nature of Germany's ultimate peace program and the advisability of avoiding measures which might bring new enemies into the field, which gained for him opposition of the Pan-Germans and the more extreme annexationists, brought him popular support.

Must Force Britain to Kneel.
Regarding the immediate occasion of the conflict, it is said, advocates of unrestricted use of submarines argued that by proclamation of a regular blockade of intention to sink all merchant ships bound for England it would be possible to force Great Britain to peace overtures within two months. This argument found a certain amount of support at headquarters until it was checked by the counter argument that the effect probably would be to lengthen instead of shorten the war, owing to the effect on neutrals.

Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and itching of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—Ad.

Ailments of Men Happily Overcome SUCCESSFULLY TRIED BY MANY.

Undoubtedly the following suggestion will work wonders for that great class of men who, through dissipation of their natural strength, find themselves in their "second childhood" long before the three score and ten allotted to life's pleasures and enjoyments are reached.

It is presumed to be infallible, and highly efficient in quickly restoring in "morose exhaustion" weak vitality, melancholia and the functions.

By taking it at home no man need be the wiser as to another's short-comings, and expensive fees are avoided.

Lack of poise and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to full, bounding health, and all the happiness accompanying it, let it be stated that the prescription calls only for three-grain cadomene tablets, in sealed tubes with full directions for self-administration. The tablets contain no opiates or habit-forming drugs, so a physician's prescription is not necessary. Well stocked pharmacies supply these tablets which possess the most wonderful tonic-investigating powers imaginable. The effect of their use is soon apparent in new strength and nerve force.

FIRST REFUGEES FROM TURKISH CRUELITIES REACH NEW YORK CITY

Advance Guard of 45 Armenians Arrive; 4200 Are to Follow.

BY L. V. R. RUCKER.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Bitter experience of the actual horrors of war is being brought to America by Armenian refugees—children, women and old men—fleeing from their homes and burning villages in Asia Minor, before the devastating Turkish. With the Goddess of Liberty a stone's throw away and the towering sky line of New York visible in the face, 45 Armenians, 15 men and the rest women and children and babies in arms waited wonderingly while Uncle Sam unwound the red tape that temporarily held them back from breathing the air of freedom. They seemed already to have forgot the noise of battle, the shouts of the on-rushing Moslems and the cries of the victims whose homes were being destroyed, as the least of their misery.

Advance Guard of 4200.
These were the advance guard of 4200 Armenian women and men being escorted as refugees to the United States by the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief. The refugees were to be colonized in this country. Their way was paid by relatives already here.

As fast as they were discharged by the immigration authorities, the Armenians were taken in charge by Walter H. Mallory, field secretary for the committee. In turn, those who had friends or relatives in New York were sent to them. The others were placed in charge of the various Armenian organizations to await employment, which the committee is attempting to obtain for them.

Most of the first contingent of refugees came from the villages of Habash and Batyan, on Mount Moses, bordering on the Mediterranean, 18 miles from the ancient city of Antioch. The two villages, having a total of 10,000 inhabitants, were destroyed last summer by the Turks.

Ordered Sent to a Desert.
"It was late last summer," said Mrs. Achah Sakemian, 79 years old, formerly of the village of Habash, "when the inhabitants of Habash and Batyan received word from the Turkish officials that we had been ordered deported to a desert somewhere in the interior." Mrs. Sakemian spoke through the interpretation of her son, S. C. Sakemian, New York art dealer, who met her at Ellis island. He is thoroughly Americanized and has had the courts cut off the last syllable of his name.

"During the time given for preparation," the aged woman continued, "about 5000 men, women and children, myself among them, fled to a refuge on Mount Moses."

The first were driven by Turkish soldiers to some place in the interior. We never knew where they went, because none ever was known to return. "The Armenians on Mount Moses resisted the Turks. Twelve the men repulsed attacks by Turkish soldiers, sent to dislodge them."

"It was a huge home-made flag that finally saved all of us. After our men had attacked the Turks at night, while they slept, we escaped to a slope on the Mediterranean. Our men surprised the Turks, and they fled, thinking it was a superior force."

"When we reached the slope, the refugees sewed together several large white sheets and in the center they placed a big red cross, made from scraps torn from garments."

"The flag was hoisted, and it attracted the attention of a French cruiser, about 19 miles off shore. The French ship came in and took up off. We were taken to Port Said, and from there to Naples."

More Than 4000 Escape.
More than 4000 Armenians from the two villages escaped to Port Said and thence to Italy. The American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief, at No. 7 Fifth avenue, New York, is receiving contributions to assist these and other Armenian refugees.

"It was awful," said another of the refugees, Mrs. Sergius Kiserjian, speaking through an interpreter. "Our villages were destroyed and we lost all our possessions except the few things we could carry to Mount Moses. The first indication of trouble came when the Turks sent military officers to the towns to demand that we turn over all the copper utensils we had. We were told that the copper was for the Germans. Those who protested were beaten."

"Then they told us to leave our homes. Those who resisted were killed outright. Some were driven away into the desert and the rest of us fled to the mountains."

Mrs. Kiserjian became so excited as she related the wrongs of her countrymen that she cried hysterically, and a three-month-old baby she carried in her arms joined its cries with those of the mother.

The refugees, for the most part, seemed very enthusiastic about starting anew in the United States. They expressed themselves as being glad to get away from war and willing to undertake any new career that would insure them from persecution.

Rare Chinese Vase Held at $50,000

$50,000 VASE AND MISS AH OY CHAU.

It may seem that $50,000 is a ridiculous price to ask for one vase, but when that particular piece of bric-a-brac is the big brother of a seven-inch specimen for which J. P. Morgan paid $28,000, it must be admitted that the price is likely to be realized. The vase is the property of a Chinese merchant in California, and is to be sent to New York for sale.

An idea of the size of this wonderful example of Chinese art may be obtained by comparing it with another product of China, Little Miss Ah Oy Chau.

Italian War Enthusiasm on the Wane; People Are Complaining Over Taxes
Berne, Switzerland, March 21.—The Rome correspondent of the "Berne Tagblatt" writes: "The war enthusiasm is disappearing in Italy, and giving way to a grave anxiety. The masses are grumbling loudly against the ever rising taxes and the agitation of the socialist against the government finds fertile soil. It is no secret that the position of premier Salandra and his cabinet is becoming very difficult. "The next few weeks may bring a serious crisis, because everything seems to go wrong. The nation has confidently expected great victories over the Austrians, but the triumphs did not materialize and since the enemy has succeeded in conquering Montenegro and the larger part of Albania the feeling is gaining ground that Italy's object in the war is lost."
